

Identification of Core Business Needs

Key Themes	Core Needs	Pain Points
1) How do we keep clients accountable?	Poor information feed and action from clients	• There is lack of visibility and transparency on information with clients, resulting in AVLOG unable to make the most effective decision and the point in time necessary. We need affective SLA's with client's to determine what they need. • Difficulty to predict volumes and priorities of client due to poor comms (i.e. Maintenance Check Project are not informed in advance). • Potential 'over-trust' of certain clients resulting in write-offs due to non-compliance to payment terms. Pressing Issue as always.
2) How do we know if we are getting value for money?	Lack of commercial and supplier management	• Poor visibility of supplier data and formalized set up with suppliers in the business • Light touch engagement with suppliers to provide competitive tension and review value-for-money • Potential leakage in expenses from lack of dedicated competitive tendering and value management (i.e. vendor bang for buck)
3) How do we ensure our operational processes are effective and controlled?	Subject to manual errors and messy process Inefficient resource allocation	• Minimal governance or processes currently in place to control financial spend or incurred costs to the business • Director is taking on a lot of high volume, low impact work resulting in time not effectively utilized for higher value items or overutilization with potential risk of burn-out • High backlog of admin activity for business financials with sensitivities in account access (i.e. paying internet and electricity bills)
4) How do we find (and nurture) the right attitude?	Hard to find talent & recruit effectively Need to build a high performance culture	• Difficult to find the technical capability required given the niche industry – good talent is hard to find • No clear incentives or penalties through effective KPIs to keep staff accountable to performance and 'what good looks like'
